The Revolutionary War

I. The New England Phase, 1775-1776

A. Battles of Lexington and Concord (April 18-19 1775)

B. Battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775

C. Washington's Siege of Boston (April 1775-March 17, 1776)

General George Washington's men forced the British to evacuate Boston by placing captured cannon from Fort Ticonderoga on Dorchester Heights near Boston.

C. Failed Invasion of Canada (Fall-Winter 1775)
British plan was for Howe's light infantry to break through along the shore and get behind the Americans. Howe's main force was then to seize rail-fence position, turn left, and attack Breed's Hill in rear. Meanwhile Pigot, without attacking, was to threaten forces on Breed's Hill to hold them in position. The attempts at breakthrough of rail fence failed, and the battle developed into a series of costly frontal attacks.

About 3,200 men on the peninsula. Probably no more than 1,500 engaged in the battle at any one time.

400 reinforcements received toward the end of the battle.

WASHINGTON (20,000)

WASHINGTON withdrew the remnants of Putnam's force to Manhattan island during the night of 29-30 August.

PUTNAM (6,500)

The British crossed unopposed on 27 August.

SULLIVAN (1,200)

Approach march made under the cover of darkness on the night of 26 - 27 August.
Retreat from New York

Washington's forces leave Manhattan after the battle of Harlem Heights. The British move troops up the East River to Long Island Sound and then march overland to White Plains where the armies clash again. They break off pursuit of the Americans and head south to capture their last strongholds, Fort Washington and Fort Lee on the Hudson. Washington and his battered army flee south to Trenton.
II. The Mid-Atlantic Phase, 1776-1778

F. 1777: Saratoga Campaign

General John Burgoyne's plan was for the British armies to capture Albany, New York, and the Hudson River; two armies were to attack from Canada, the other from New York. By this strategy the British could isolate New England.

1. Battle of Fort Ticonderoga (July 2-6, 1777)
2. Battle of Fort Stanwix (August 23, 1777)
3. Battle of Bennington (August 1777)
4. First Battle of Saratoga (Sept. 1777)
5. Second Battle of Saratoga (Oct. 1777)

Possibly most important campaign of the war:
   a. First major American victory: French support
   b. Saved New England from isolation.
   c. Eliminates a large British army.

B. Clinton decides to move the war south to get support of slaves and loyalists.

C. British capture Savannah, GA (Dec 29, 1778)

D. British captured Charleston, SC (May 12, 1780)

1. Commercial center of the southern colonies.
2. The Americans defended Charleston for six weeks, but in May the British captured the city.
3. The entire southern Army -- 5400-man garrison -- was captured. SC was controlled.
4. Worst colonial defeat of the war.
The Revolutionary War

IV. The Southern Phase, 1778-1781

E. Clinton returned to New York, leaving the South under the control of General Charles Cornwallis.

F. 1780: Benedict Arnold goes to the British side. Convinced Americans were going to lose.

G. Marquis de Lafayette joined the Americans and got a regiment of French troops from Louis XVI.

H. By Dec 1780, British occupied South six months. Controlled cities, but country a place of warfare.

J. From SC, NC, VA, NC: Greene lost battles, but got the population to his side, and kept his army alive.

General Nathaniel Greene
